4 Candidates Vie for Council Presidency Today Spring Madness Features Aretha Franklin Jazz

Voting Booths Will Be in the Univ. Center

Today the students will go to the polls to decide the next Student Council president and other officers. This year's election has a field of four presidential candidates. They are Houston Baker, Leonard Butler, Richard Mays, and Sharon Pratt.

Elaine Jones is the only candidate for the vice-presidency. Miki Cunningham, Marsha Echols, and Sandra Lawson are running for Secretary, and Wallace Peace and Frank Satterwhite are contending for Treasurer.

Senior Class

Running for president of the senior class are Floyd Atkins, Edison Moore, and Joseph Mc...

Concert Will Be Held May 9 at Cramton Theatre

Aretha Franklin, famous for her "soul jazz" renditions, headlines a week of activities in the 3rd annual Sprung Madness, which will be held during the week of May 3-9.

Miss Franklin's prominence, skyrocketed after she released an album dedicated to the late Dinah Washington. Entitled "Dedicated to Dinah," Miss Franklin sang many of the songs which the "Queen of the Blues" had made famous.

The concert will be held on Saturday, May 9, and it will close out the week's activities. Tickets for the Cramton Audi-

500 Students Hear Rustin, Harrington Discuss 'Poverty

by William Johnson, Jr.

Project Awareness, dormant for many months, was revived on Monday evening when the topic, "Poverty in the U.S.A." was discussed by four knowledgeable persons. Five hundred persons sat in Cramton Auditorium to hear Marvin Friedman, Michael Harrington, Leon Keyserling and Bayard Rustin participate in what LASC president Larry Gibson termed "the most stimulating and the most challenging" of all series.

The topic discussed was one around which much debate and discussion has arisen since President Johnson launched his "War on Poverty" campaign.

Each of the speakers was able to relate his training and experiences to the topic. Mr. Friedman, an AFL-CIO economist who is an expert on manpower and employment, spoke on labor's efforts to work with unorganized workers. He felt that there was much that could be done to aid these people; many efforts had already been initiated, but with little success. He saw "the expansion of the (various) programs" offered by organized labor as an ultimate necessity.

Harrington is the editor of NEW AMERICA and the author of...

Danforth Grant Goes to David F. Dorsey for Year

David F. Dorsey, Jr., instructor in classics, has received a second Teacher Study Grant from the Danforth Foundation in St. Louis. The grant will provide another calendar year of graduate study at Princeton University, where Dorsey is working toward the Doctor of Philosophy degree.

Mr. Dorsey is a graduate of Haverford (Pa.) College, where he earned the Bachelor of Arts degree in 1956. He earned the Master of Arts degree a year later at the University of Michigan.

Students Tutor Merriweather Home Kids "Future for Jimmy" Program Also Active

Johnny is six years old. He lives at the Merriweather Orphan's Home. Once a week, members of the National Service Fraternity, Alpha Phi Omega, visit Johnny. Besides bringing a little brightness into his life, these Howard students teach Johnny to read and count.

Henry is twelve years old and in the sixth grade. He has no father and his mother is very sick. From two to four times a week, Henry visits a Howard student who belongs to the Bakers Dozen tutoring project from whom he receives help, so that he can enter junior high next year.

These are just two of the many projects Howard students are taking part in in order to help area school children, who for one reason or another, have fallen behind in their studies.

Most of these projects seek to try to improve reading skills. Others, such as "A Future for Jimmy" project include mathematics, while others attempt to supply learning with companionship and understanding.

In any case, the general theme of each of these projects is the improvement of skills, the broadening of aspirations, and the motivation of youth toward self-improvement.

At the Merriweather Home where the children are all of pre-school or elementary school age, the members of Alpha Phi Omega help each child with their "ABC's" and simple addition and subtraction problems.

"Sparkling glow of happiness"

"Two and two is four?"

It's About Time—

We are happy to hear that the Bison has finally been sent to the printer. After being over a month late, it is certainly about time.

The immediate question that should come to every senior's mind is "Will the yearbook be back in time for graduation?" No one is sure, not even the printer. It depends on the complexity of layout and the amount of written material present.

If the Bison should arrive in time, the major thanks should go to Carl Anderson, Director of Student Activities, and four dedicated students who put more than half the book together in approximately 10 days.

Frank Patterson, Paul Smith, Beverly Ledbetter, and Norlisha Jackson spent many long hours, including several 20-hour days, to make sure seniors would receive a book. With the poor start of the Bison, it is a credit to these students to have succeeded against overwhelming odds.

But in the final analysis, if these students deserve thanks, a great deal more must be given to Carl Anderson. It was his leadership, more than anything else, that was the key which opened the door to progress.

Make that Vote Count!

There is something lacking in this year's campaign for the Student Council presidency. That something is controversy, a real difference of opinion. All of the candidates seem to support the same thing.

Why is there no real issue? For one, a new candidate generally hopes to win votes by criticizing the existing Council and promising improvements. This year's Council has been very active and has offered many new programs to the students.

Another reason for the lack of an issue is that last year the main issue was whether to have an All-University Student Council, an idea that was farcical from the start.

As we go to press, all of the candidates seem to have essentially the same platform. Perhaps some major differences will become obvious as the campaign continues. We hope so.

Although we do not endorse any one candidate, we would like to suggest some criteria for judgment.

1. Has the candidate been active in campus politics?
2. Has he allowed himself to be queried about his position?
3. Will his membership in any particular campus group bind him to the interests of that group above that of the general student body?
4. Does his past record indicate a potential for leadership?
5. Have his past actions been responsible?

We hope that you will study the interviews with the candidates (those who consented to an interview), limited as they are, and will vote wisely. Remember, the kind of Student Council you have next year depends on your vote—or the lack of it.

Students Get Expert Training for Job

If the pupil has reached elementary school, he will be taught basic reading skills and a higher degree of mathematics depending upon his educational level. But teaching these children to read and count may not be the primary aim of the project.

As one tutor put it, more than likely, it is the sparkling glow of happiness that each child seems to radiate when his friend is there to help him.

In many cases, these orphans do not have the benefit of older male companionship. Alpha Phi Omega has been trying to fill this void by spending an hour with them each Thursday.

In the Bakers Dozen project, more sophisticated techniques are used in order to improve reading skills. Here, Howard students receive supervised training from knowledgeable psychologists, sociologists and educators who have studied the basic problems behind reading difficulties.

The volunteers for this program are expected to devote three hours per week—most devote more time to the project. At least two hours a week are devoted to the remedial instruction work, but once a week, an hour is set aside whereby the tutor can discuss his problems and share his experiences.

At these weekly seminars, tutors are kept abreast of their pupils' progress in school. He can then coordinate his teaching so that his student will receive the most benefit from his help.

Besides the valuable progress report, trained sociologists explain the socio-economic background of each student. In this manner, the tutor can see realistically what his pupil must face and take any necessary steps to teach the youth to help himself.

In some of these cases, the child to be taught is unruly or has some type of psychological problem; therefore, the sociologist will help the tutor to contact the student and to form a relationship whereby the tutor can most effectively secure the confidence of the person to be helped.

"A Future for Jimmy" is another project in which Howard students are participating. This is more of a group project with many centers located around the city.

Books and pamphlets are distributed to each tutor so that he or she may learn acceptable techniques for teaching.

Beside the many children who take advantage of this project,

Disagrees With Sports Editor

Dear Sir:

In the March 20th edition of the Hilltop, an article written by Rayton Gerald came to my attention. It seemed to be attacking Mal Whitfield's proposal concerning the Olympic boycott. Mr. Gerald stated that he was in accord with the purpose of the boycott, but found the boycott difficult to sanction. This in itself is a questionable statement. He goes on to say that such a boycott would be more detrimental to our cause than beneficial. This is my reason for writing. I disagree with him wholeheartedly. If Mr. Gerald would re-examine the racial situation in America today, he would probably realize the errors of his own stand. But like so many other "New Frontier Negroes", Mr. Gerald believes that equality is lurking around the corner just waiting to spring at deserving Negroes.

I condone, sanction, and will participate in any move or plan designed to eradicate the evils of the system of segregation in "our" country.

Mr. Gerald speaks of obscure-ing Mr. Whitfield's rational logic—this to me has no real meaning. But if the phrase is directed to this racial problem—he seems to be in error; because the white man has done all the obscuring. Mr. Gerald seems to infer that he advocates complete acceptance of all racial abuse; and total termination of protest movements. We are fortunate that this "Uncle Tom" concept has not been accepted by most Negroes. If it were, our progress would be in a state of static equilibrium—that equilibrium of 100 years ago.

I think that Mr. Gerald should recognize the fact that the Negro has progressed too far to let himself regress by taking whatever he can get to prove himself "equal". More than likely, Mr. Gerald, the era of protest is here to stay, and whether it be directed at a small park in Georgia or a large one in Japan matters not to militant Negroes.

As for Mr. Whitfield—his proposal is excellent, and should be followed by Negro athletes.

Thank you
George Gates

Bikel; authors James Baldwin and Langston Hughes; actors Ossie Davis, Ruby Dee and Robert Ryan, and Lincoln Kirstein, general director of the New York City Ballet.

The theatre will work toward "the establishment of permanent stock and repertory companies, with touring units, in major population centers of the South, staging plays that reflect the struggles of the American Negro."

The idea was initiated by the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC), and it supported by the Council of Federated Organizations (COFO). It will be assisted by Tougaloo Southern Christian College, near here.

The theatre will seek to combat "the degrading effect of inferior education, the deliberate exclusion of the Negro community from all but the most meager cultural resources and the omissions and distortions of local press, radio and television."

Professional and amateur talent will be used in staging plays.

Scripts under consideration include "Purdie Victorius" by Ossie Davis, "Do You Want To Be Free?" by Langston Hughes, "Lower Than The Angels" by John O. Killens and a modern adaption of "Antigone."

there are some adults who ask and receive help to improve their reading skills. One such case is that of a fifty-year-old man who can only read on the first grade level.

It is a long and difficult task to teach a student who has just spent five hours in school, but as one tutor put it: "The reward of seeing my pupil get better grades outweighs all other considerations."

Four Candidates Make Every Vote Important

Articulate Student Rights

Council to Cater to All

Interview

Why do you want to be president?

I feel that instructors and administrators are remiss in their duties toward the students. There are great needs for stressing rights of students on campus. As president I will be able to articulate these problems to the teachers and administration and get better cooperation.

What are your past Student Council Activities?

I have worked closely with the President as his administrative assistant. Other than that, nothing.

What specific changes or programs would you inaugurate?

The Student Council must be one which will ardently seek out the needs of the students and articulate them effectively to the Administration. I hope to inaugurate (1) an intensive program to study purchasing power and get a student discount which seems justifiable, (2) a cooperative bookstore operated by capable students to sell textbooks at a reasonable price, (3) a substantial increase ($2,000) in the student loan fund, (4) a dynamic effort by the LASC to establish an atmosphere characterized by individual freedom and conducive to high academic achievement and effective socialization.

Will you be running as part of a slate?

No, although I did endorse Mervin Mohammed before he was disqualified. I wanted to see more foreign students participating since we do have the largest percentage of foreign students of any school in the country. I do endorse Frank Satterwhite for Treasurer and Lewis Robinson and Pat Jordan for Senior Class representative.

Houston Baker — Campus Pals, Howard Players, Coordinator of Leadership Conference, Administrative Assistant to the Student Council President, Honors Program, Dean's Honor Roll 1961-1963, Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity

What do you think of your opponents?

Pratt? I don't think she's the best qualified.

Butler? He has certain characteristics which would not qualify him for such a position. In other words, he is weak.

Mays? Who's he? Who is your campaign manager?

I have two — Larry Gibson and Phillip Hutchins. Anything else to add?

I hope the students will respond to the campaign effort which I will conduct and elect the most qualified candidate.

Student Council Elections Today

Millan, Langston C. McKinney and Xavier Holt are running for vice president while Myrtia Clayton, Sandra Herndon and Leatha McRuffin are running for secretary while Clyde Blassengale, Thomas Malone, and Madison Richardson are running for treasurer.

Eight candidates are running for Senior class representative. They are Nan Fisher, Robert Flynn, Patricia Jordan, Tyrone Mitchell, Lewis Robinson, Frank Satterwhite, James Sykes and M. Lynn Fountain.

Junior Class

Running for president of the junior class are John Brittain, Ralph Durham and Thomas Wright. Carl Gaines, Mary Gooden, Ernest Jones, William Keene, and David Reid are contending for vice-president. Edna Anderson, Eldridge Pearsall, Richard Waters and Roland B. Williams are running for treasurer.

Ten candidates are running for junior class representative. They are Cleveland Christophe, Derek Brown, Thurman Evans, Cain Felder, Bobbie Graves, Marilyn Lashley, Marshall Morrison, Chris Patterson, Rohuman Quander and Deanne Williams.

Sophomore Class

Running for sophomore class president are Kenneth Howard and Robert Utley. Charles Franklin is a newly announced write-in candidate. For vice-president are James Brown and Betty-Jo Clay; for secretary are Audrey Brodie, June Jones, Nora Turner and Vera Wells; for treasurer are Ethlyn Giddens, James Jones, Joyce Kennedy and James Newby.

Deitra Handy, Marjorie Borders, Pamela Trotman and Robert Campbell are running for sophomore class representative.

Eight eligible seniors are running for May Queen. They are Cora Bowie, E. Carole Jordan, Harriet Granger, Morlisha Jackson, Rin Hawkins, Evelyn Phipps, Helen Henderson and Dianna Porter.

Election booths are on the first floor of the University Center. It is anticipated that the turnout this year will be a very good one.

Sharon Pratt — Faulk Fellow, Citizenship Project, Chairman of the Political Science Society, Honors Program, Dean's List 1961-62, Student Council Constitutional Committee, Chairman of the World Affairs Club, Honors Reading Club, Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority

Why do you want to be president?

In order to make the Student Council responsible to everybody and not just to a few individuals.

Is this to imply that it has catered to a few individuals?

Yes, particularly to the Greek organizations. I want the merit of a suggestion to be judged over and above the membership of the person making the suggestion. I want to broaden the base of the Student Assembly and increase its powers so that we will have a central organ for the whole University.

Specifically, what have your past Student Council activities been?

Just the Constitutional Committee.

What specific changes or programs would you inaugurate?

I would have open "press conferences" to force the Council to answer for its actions. I want athletic scholarships to foster spirit and athletic participation. I want the Council funds dealt out on an equal basis to each requesting organization according to the merits of the request and not at the whims of the treasurer. I want to encourage independents to take responsible positions in the Council. I will promote the Project Awareness and activities which will increase interest in cultural and national issues. We should have student political groups on campus such as the Young Democrats and Republicans.

What have you done in the past to implement these goals?

I have participated in the Political Science Project and World Affairs Club. I have talked to some football players to see how they feel and I have talked to administrative officials like Dean Blackburn to more rapport between them and the students. I also participate in the leadership conference.

Will you be running as part of a slate?

No. Although I have been approached by several organizations who wished to officially support me, I have declined because I wish to run as an independent.

What do you think of your opponents?

Richard Mays? I don't know a thing about him.

Make Council Activity Felt

Interview

Why do you want to be president?

I have looked at the Student Council which seems to be an inner circle of people. I want to open it up so that the students at large so that they will be more integrated with the student body. The student don't know what's going on. We want every student to feel the impact of the Student Council.

What are your past Student Council activities?

I have none.

What specific changes or programs would you inaugurate?

Howard students have been accused of being uninterested or being apathetic. This is true because of a lack of responsiveness of the Student Council.

We hope to (1) open the floor of the Council meetings of non-members who wish to voice their opinion, (2) to seek to the recognition of the Non-Violent Action Group, (3) to change the academic qualifications of all student Council offices to 2.5, (4) make it compulsory that all class representatives attend class meetings, (5) get better publicity and programming for Project Awareness and the Cultural Series, (6) and see that we have a student-faculty judiciary. Personally, I will see that there is more of a direct relationship between the president and the students.

Will you be running as part of a slate?

No, although I do support the candidacy of Elaine Jones for vice-president. She is qualified and responsible and will probably be dedicated to the position.

What do you think of your opponents?

Butler? He is qualified, but he does not possess the insight (Continued on page 4, col. 3)

PLATFORM — "A New Look in Student Government"

"Student government derives its right to exist from the Student's fundamental right to express his thoughts and opinions. One of its primary goals should be the promotion of national and international awareness through meaningful campus programming. With this in mind, I have formulated a program through which we can best achieve these goals."

1. An increase in student wages — "Student wages should be increased to a level of respectability, equivalent to federal minimum wage standards."
2. Student discount
3. A continuous people to people program — "Howard University has the greatest percentage of foreign students in the nation. During his intercollegiate career, the foreign student is treated as a separate entity, all of from students' activities. There is a drastic need for creation of a foreign student-American student relationship."
4. Recognition of human rights and political organization —
5. A "reinorgorated" (sic) Project Awareness program —

"I have been closely connected to student government for three years. I think I have familiarized myself with the workings of student government and its shortcomings. I am confident that I can build the LASC into a good, unified student government."

Negro Law Student Can Win Marshall Scholarship Award

The New York State Association of Trial Lawyers, through its Committee on Racial Equality, has established a full three-year scholarship at the New York Law School for a Negro law student residing in the State of New York. This scholarship bears the name of The Honorable Thurgood Marshall and was so named because of Judge Marshall's efforts over the years on behalf of civil rights.

The basic purpose of this scholarship is to provide the necessary economic means to a qualified Negro student endeavoring to obtain a degree in law. This award has been established because study indicates that there is a grossly insufficient representation of Negro lawyers at the Bar resulting from an insufficient number of applicants to Law School.

All inquiries pertaining to The Thurgood Marshall Award should be addressed to Dean Daniel Gutman of the New York Law School, 57 Worth Street, New York, N.Y., and a copy of same to the New York State Association of Trial Lawyers, 225 Broadway, New York 7, N.Y., to the attention of the Co-chairman of the Committee on Racial Equality, Stanley P. Danzig, Esq. and Hesper A. Jackson, Jr., Esq.

Project Awareness

of the widely acclaimed The Other America, a book dealing with the poverty question. He stated that the costs of maintaining poverty — social, financial, political and ethical — are far greater than would be the cost of eliminating it. He further stated that this nation spends billions of dollars providing "custodial services for the maintenance of misery."

Making his second appearance at Project Awareness — he appeared in a debate with Malcolm X — was Bayard Rustin. Rustin, most recently the deputy director of the March on Washington, suggested that the civil rights movement and the poverty campaign could best achieve their objectives if they were united. Full employment, decent housing, and better wages should be attacked as national problems, rather than as problems peculiar to any racial or ethnic groups. When more jobs and better housing is achieved nationally, then all groups will be the beneficiaries, he stated.

Keyserling, a government economist and the president of the Conference on Economic Progress, emphasized the need for national planning. Thousands of jobs have been eliminated by automation and technology, he said; however, through "social inventiveness and national planning," many new jobs are created.

ated. He felt that a wide scale program of retraining unskilled workers, who are the first to be displaced by automation, is a virtual necessity. There are many services that these persons are capable of performing and, which at the present time, the country sorely lacks," he concluded.

A panel composed of Dr. Elias Blake of the Department of Education, Bernard Conn, a student in the College of Liberal Arts, and Ivan "Bud" Eames, a former student, directed several questions to the speakers at the conclusion of their formal presentations.

Project Awareness was launched by the Liberal Arts Student Council in 1961, and it attempts to bring to the campus personalities of varied political and intellectual philosophies. In bringing controversial figures on campus, the series has attempted to give "all points of view a courteous and decorous reception; all speakers a fair hearing. The series' chairman is Courtland Cox.

Sprung Madness Set for Next Week

torium performance will be sold in the University Center. The prices are $1.25 (students) and $2 (all others).

Sprung Madness is being held in order to raise funds for the Community Chest. Several activities have been planned for the week. These activities have also been designed to provide enjoyment and entertainment for the campus community as well.

One of the activities will be the highly popular UMOG — UBOC contests, which were originated last year. Appeals have been sent to all campus organizations to enter candidates in UMOG (Ugly Man on Campus) and UBOC (Ugly Beauty on Campus). A new feature has been added this year. Teachers have been asked to enter the UTOG (Ugly Teacher on Campus) contest.

A booth will be located centrally on campus where persons will be able to vote for their favorite UMOG - UTOG - UBOC. A penny is to be cast for each candidate. Those persons receiving the highest number of pennies in each category will be crowned at the UMOG - UBOC - UTOG Ball on Friday, May 8. The ball will be held in the University Ballroom from 9 to 1 a.m. — Two new features have been added this year. One is the SICK-O-LIMP-IKS, to be held in the Stadium on Saturday of that week from 12 noon to 6 p.m. Various games calling for group and individual cooperation have been devised for the afternoon. Organizations have been asked to participate and individuals who would like to form groups have been encouraged to enter. Persons desirous of participating in the SICK-O-LIMP-IKS should contact Walt Atkins (LA 9-9426) or Charlena Moten (AD 2-0628).

During the entire week, a long board will run adjacent to one of the long sidewalks leading from Douglas Hall. Known as the "Line of Dimes," the campus community will be asked to insert dimes in this long board. The goal sought is for the board to be filled with dimes by the end of the week. A progress chart will be nearby so that the campus community will be able to see how rapidly the goal is accomplished.

The week's activities will begin on Sunday, May 3 with a movie entitled "If a Man Answers," starring Bobby Darrin and Sandra Dee, to be shown on the campus green in front of Douglas Hall. This open-air movie will begin at sundown and will be free of charge.

Joseph McMillan is the General Chairman of Sprung Madness. The activity is being coordinated by the Office of Student Life.

to organize the Student Council well enough to have an impact.

Baker? Ditto. Pratt? Ditto. Who is your campaign manager?

Harold Holiday and Edison Moore.

Anything else to add?

Although I have not done anything in the Student Council I feel that this has given me a view and understanding of the masses of students. Therein lies my strength.

enough.

Baker? He would be an excellent president of Phi Beta Kappa. He isn't interested.

Who is your campaign manager?

Dorothy Brown.

Anything else to add?

I am going to run as an independent in the belief that as such I will be able to serve the students without any obligations to any particular group on campus.
